

Families in Tanach Game

By Torah Umesorah Educational Resource Center

Grade Level: Elementary- Middle School

Description;

A review game of some of the families in Tanach which can be played independently. Students match the correct husband, father or children to the name on the board. The cards are color coded and will form a picture when arranged correctly so the students can self-check.

Goals/Objectives:

Students will classify names into the correct families by playing this game.

Materials Needed:

- Color copies of the charts and cards

Instructions:

1. To Create the Board: Page number one is the board- laminate it and put velcro in each square.
2. Page 2 and 3: cut out the big squares on the dotted line, glue the pages back to back. Let dry.
3. Cut each square- one side should have a name and on the back, there should be part of the picture.
4. Put a small piece of velcro under each name.
5. Students play independently.
6. Each student receives a board and a set of cards.
7. He\she chooses a card, and using the key, covers the match on the board.
8. When all the cards are used up, the “covers” will show a picture.
9. Student will know that there are mistakes if the picture isn't formed properly.
